known in the annals of the history of our city as much excitement over an election contest as has been experienced in our midst. Since Thursday last, men of every business and station seemed thoroughly aroused to the great importance of the event, and laying every thing else aside, spent almost their entire time visiting the telegraph office, and the various news headquarters.
This excitement was increased and kept up to fever heat by the many conflicting dispatches that reached the city every half hour, and finally it became necessary at the telegraph office, in order to preserve sufficient order to conduct the business, to station a police force at the door to keep the room and street quiet.
We are pleased to say that amidst all the excitement, the utmost good feeling was preserved and not a single row occurred during the time.THE COMPLAINT.—Yesterday morn-

MEETING OF THE BOARD OF CITY COMMISSIONERS.—An adjourned meeting of the Board of City Commissioners was held Tuesday evening. Wesley Whitaker, Mayor, presiding. Present, Messrs. Gorman, Stronach, Prairie, Battle, Dunston, Ellison and Upchurch, Commissioners.The proceedings of the last meeting were read and approved.The Committee on Treasurer's books was allowed further time. It was shown that the Committee on West Basement reported that they had rented the Bar room to Miller & Nelson for $35 per month, to be paid in advance.Mr. Battle offered the following resolution, which was adopted: Resolved, That the Mayor and Collector shall have power to make corrections in the list of personal property, the party applying for such corrections to make oath in regard to the same.A long and animated discussion ensued upon the general condition of the streets, street-work, &c. It was shown that owing to the non-completion of important work now in progress, that great damage had been sustained by the freshets.On motion of Dunston, (col.) the number of carts was increased three additional, and the work ordered to be pushed forward.A petition from the Mechanics' Association of the city of Raleigh, was presented by Henry Keith, Esq., who asked the use of the unoccupied rooms on the third floor of the market house, as a place of meeting for said association, and also for library rooms and for general instruction purposes. The petition was granted, with a proviso that the city may at any time the Commissioners deem proper order their vacation, giving one month's notice.Eating house license was granted to the following parties:
Miss Nancy Hilliard, Exchange Hotel.
A. J. Rutjes, National Hotel.
W. B. Blackall, Yarborough House.
J. P. Bryan & Johnson, City Hotel.
W. R. Pepper, Pepper's Saloon.
License to retail spirituous liquors was granted A. J. Rutjes and W. R. Pepper.
E. T. Hall was licensed as a city auctioner, having filed the required bond of $5,000.The bond of Doc Chavis, the city pump contractor, was read and approved.Several transfers of liquor license were granted.On motion the Board adjourned to meet on next Friday night.ANOTHER OUTRAGE.—It is currently reported and believed in this city, that a colored man was murdered at the poils in Franklin, for exercising the privilege to vote in the late election as he wished.The outrage is said to have been committed at Clifton Mills, by a negro named Tom Spivey; that the victim Hal Young was killed before leaving the poils, and the murderer now in Louisburg jail.

THE TEMPERANCE CONVENTION.

In obedience to a call for a general State Convention heretofore published in these columns, several gentlemen met in the Commons Hall in this city August 6th.The Convention was called to order by calling the Rev. L. S. Burkhead to the Chair, and Z. T. Broughton requested to act as Secretary.Rev. H. T. Hudson, at the request of the Chairman, explained the objects of the meeting, after which On motion of J. T. Ball, Esq., a Committee was appointed on permanent organization.During the absence of the Committee Judge Samuel Watts, who happened to be in the Hall, through curiosity, was called upon and responded in a short and appropriate address. The Committee on permanent organization reported the following officers:

President, Rev. L. S. Burkhead.

Vice President, W. R. Duke.

Secretary, Z. T. Broughton.

J. T. Ball moved that the order of the Sons of Temperance be resuscitated.W. J. Edwards moved the adoption of the order of the Templars of Honor and Temperance.Mr. Hudson moved the adoption of the N. C. State Temperance Society.Pending the discussion, in which a history of each of the orders were briefly given, the Convention adjourned till 4 o'clock.In the evening session, the discussion was resumed, and after the offering of several resolutions, the following, offered by Rev. H. T. Hudson, was adopted:Resolved, That it is the sense of this Convention that the Order of Good Templars will promote the temperance reform, and be an effective instrumental, co-operating harmoniously with the Friend of Temperance and the N.
C. State Temperance Societies, which we recognize as doing effective service in the cause, in disseminating temperance principles.Able speeches were made by brothers Branson, Hudson, N. B. Broughton, Ball, Burkhead and Travick.After a very harmonious and interesting session, the Convention adjourned till 6 o'clock."OUR PET."—This is the title of a beautiful eight page literary Journal published by Mrs. Addie Paul, Charlotte, N. C., the first number of which is now before us.After the usual salutatory opening, in which the editors says:"By an experience of four years in a printing office, we consider our position some extent fitted for the position we have assumed, and although we enter it with fear and trembling, we hope we are prepared for every emergency, and that our little pet will meet a kind reception from all into whose hands it may chance to fall."She refers to the subject of woman's rights and thus discourses:"We are a woman-rights woman only in one respect, which is that a woman has the right to employ herself in any occupation suitable to her position and congenial to her taste. This she can do without transcending the line of decency and decorum marked down in the strictest etiquette of every-day life.No one will deny the fact that it is the duty of every woman, no matter in what station of life or of how much wealth possessed, to make herself useful in some way, and so long as she confines herself to civil life the occupation should be of her own choosing, and such as she may think herself best fitted for by the natural surroundings in which she may happen to be placed. In this view of the case we have adopted our present occupation, believing it to be suited to us, and one in which we can be of most service to those whom we hold dearest on earth."We commend most heartily this worthy enterprise and hope it will find its way to the fireside of every family in North Carolina. Terms $1.50 per annum. Address the publisher, Mrs.

ON THE N. C. R. R.—THREE MEN SE-RIOUSLY WOUNDED—OTHERS SLIGHTLY INJURED.—Yesterday evening while the workmen were engaged in erecting the trussel work where an opening is now being made for the passage of Lenoir street across the North Carolina railroad, the embankment gave way, precipitating the heavy timbers and sills about eight feet below, where a number of the workmen were engaged. Fortunately the warning was sufficient to enable the most of them to get away, but three of the men, two white and one colored, were caught by the dirt and sustained serious though not fatal injuries.The names of the white men are, W.
G. Adams, and Doc Pierce; the colored man, Dave Claig. They were immediately removed to a house near by where medical aid was summoned to their relief.The break in the road, though it will prevent the passage of cars for thirty six hours, will not cause any delay to travel. A train was sent from Company Shops soon after the accident which arrived at the break in time to meet the up train from Goldsboro, and left the city for the West on its usual time.

april-2f C. D. HEARTY & CO."The Lesson of the North Carolina Election—The Peril of the Administration."The following able article under the above heading from the New York Herald of Tuesday, reviewing the result of the North Carolina election, will be read with pleasure by those who have been recently engaged in one of the most earnest contests for right that a nation has ever witnessed, and while we sorely regret the result, yet it is gratifying to know that the national effect upon the Grant administration has been attained:The result of the North Carolina election is still in doubt so far as the actual figures are concerned, and it is not yet known whether the State government is to be continued in the hands of the Republicans, where it has remained ever since the rehabilitation of the State after the war, or is to be transferred to the Democrats. It is conceded that the Democrats have elected a majority of the Legislature, thus securing a United States Senator in place of the Republican incumbent, John Pool; but on the State ticket, each side claims to be ahead, the Democrats being less hopeful at last accounts than they have heretofore been since the close of the polls. However this may be, it is certain that the Republicans have actually suffered a severe reverse in this first battle of the campaign, and even if they should succeed in saving their Government the effect will be none the less damaging to their future prospects. The State belongs legitimately to the Republican side. The Democratic Attorney General was elected in 1870 by a majority of nearly five thousand through a division in the Republican ranks, but every other year since the cessation of the war the Republicans have been successful by majorities ranging from nine to twenty-three thousand. This year it was confidently anticipated that the Republican triumph would be more signal than at the last election for Governor in 1868, when the Republican candidate received over eighteen thousand majority, and everything appeared to justify this belief. The State nominations had been made by both parties prior to the union of the Liberal Republicans and Democrats upon a Presidential ticket, and hence, did not fairly represent that combination. The whole Federal and State patronage and the machinery of election were in the hands of the Administration party. The negro vote was united in support of the Republican ticket, and many white citizens were known to be practically disfranchised through threats of prosecution on old indictments that were held hanging over their heads. It seemed to be as impossible to wrest North Carolina from the hand of the administration, as it would have been to snatch this city government from the grasp of Tammany three years ago. No apprehension of a reverse was felt in the Republican camp, and if gigantic efforts were put forth by that party in the canvass, it was rather with the object of making their victory so overwhelming as to dismay the defenders of Greeley, than with any idea that they were needed to keep the State in the Republican line. Under these circumstances the very closeness of the contest, and the uncertainty of the result is, in effect, a Republican disaster, and will be so regarded all over the United States, North and South.

North Carolina by one thousand majority. There are as yet eight counties to be heard from. The Herald count, but adds that it is absolutely impossible to decide until the official vote is in.The Tribune says the returns which it has this morning give Caldwell a majority of 400, but it is not disposed to give up the State on the present showing.

THE LATE ELECTION.

The official returns which have been coming in for the past two days establish the fact that Judge Merrimon has been defeated by some 1,000 votes. We publish in our table of elections this morning the official returns from 33 counties, and shall add the remaining official votes as rapidly as they reach us. It will be seen that in the 33 counties Caldwell received a vote of 68,142, and Merrimon a vote of 65,068, a majority in the same of 3,156 for Caldwell.

By examination it will be found that the losses and gains on the vote of 1870 have been heavy on both sides, and the cause of the general belief of a Democratic victory, for some two days after the election, was the returns of Democratic gains in counties where we had not expected to gain, and the footing up to Sunday night the Republicans had conceded defeat.

But though defeated in numbers, we do not feel that we have been defeated in fact. Opposed to us have been the whole power of the Federal Administration, and the combined effects of intimidation and fraud. The vote has been increased by some 10,000, and yet in the face of all this opposition we have almost won a victory that in its results would have been most happily felt from one end of the country to the other.

Take the result in its present light, and the Grant Administration has received a blow that will end in its overthrow in November.

OTHER FIELDS.

The election in North Carolina is over, the opposing elements have marshaled their hosts and the battle has been fought and enough can be ascertained from the result of the contest to conclude with almost certainty that, in spite of the result, the State will declare for Greeley and Brown in November.

But other elections will follow on the heels of that in our own State, and it is to these that the Democrats and Liberals should now turn their attention. Our opponents will exhaust all their resources to gain a victory in these States and we should be prepared to meet them in every quarter.

Remember that North Carolina cannot decide the contest in November, and we urge our friends throughout the country not to neglect the interests of our cause in other States.

THE NEXT LEGISLATURE.

Notwithstanding we have lost the State ticket, we yet hold the Legislature by a handsome majority. Thus far we have certainly 62 Democratic members out of 126 in the House, with 44 Republicans and 14 doubtful. Those claimed as doubtful will certainly give us 3 or 4 more, and this is a safe working majority. In the Senate we have 32 members out of 50, and may possibly get one or two more, nearly or quite a two thirds majority; a majority on joint ballot of some 22. And thus will Gov. Caldwell and his followers find themselves checked in any civil designs they may have upon the State.

Among the members of the House from the East, we will have Mr. J. Edwin Moore, from Martin—a county in which we had a reported defeat.

In a day or two we shall publish a list of the newly elected members.

WEST VIRGINIA.

In our statement in yesterday's issue in regard to the coming elections in other States, we neglected to mention that of West Virginia, which occurs on the 22nd inst., when a Governor, members of the Legislature and members of Congress will be elected. The new Constitution will also be voted on.

THE RESULT.

From all the information which we have been able to obtain, we think the result in this State is in favor of the Republican party, and when the counties in the West are heard from, their majority will probably reach from five hundred to a thousand votes.

Thus have the honest and patriotic people of the Old North State been again disappointed, but while disappointed and while the result of the contest is against them, still it is not a defeat, and shows how determined were our people and teaches that they may be depended on in future elections.

People of other States have no idea of the great odds with which the Conservatives were forced to contend.

President Grant and his followers, fearing the disastrous effect of a defeat in this State, threw all the influence of his Administration into the contest, the Federal Treasury was drawn on to give aid to their efforts, United States marshals and detectives, by threats, intimidated some from voting, while promises of reward in some way or another, were held out to others; negroes were imported from other States, in some places, it is asserted, to a large extent, to vote for their white brethren, a larger vote, by perhaps ten thousand, was polled in this election than at any since the war, and yet in the face of all these things, have the Radicals anything of which to boast? With all of their power and patronage their candidate for Governor will, only be elected by the small majority mentioned above. While it is true our ticket has not been successful, yet, the influence of the election will have the effect of a victory in other States as will be abundantly proved in November.

The canvass has been thorough and complete, the campaign was conducted ably, and too much credit cannot be awarded our candidates for their efforts. Judge Merrimon's speeches were unanswerable, and he made one of the most effective campaigns ever made before in North Carolina, and whether elected or not, the services of Augustus S. Merrimon will be long remembered by the people of his native State. Had success crowned our efforts, he would have done credit to North Carolina and been an honor to himself.

All of our candidates did their duty nobly; the people, that portion which did not allow themselves to be influenced by considerations, have labored in the cause of Conservatism and reform in a manner which shows their devotion to principle and their love of liberty.

Although by fraud and intimidation the State has been carried by a small majority in favor of the Republican party, yet we feel safe in saying that in November she will speak in thunder in favor of Greeley and Brown, the tide of reform which has been sweeping over the country, is fast seizing upon the people here, and we bid our friends in other States be of good cheer.

DISSATISFIED.

In spite of the grand flourish with which Grant was announced as the candidate of the Republican party for the Presidency, in spite of their great confidence in his strength as their standard bearer in the coming fall campaign, there is great dissatisfaction manifested with him by his own party friends, and the propriety of requesting his withdrawal and the substitution of some more available man has been discussed in private circles.

Gen. Sheridan has been mentioned as the most likely to secure the vote of his party, but then General Sheridan, it is said, is a foreigner and therefore ineligible.

Republicans are reduced to desperate straits; their candidate, who four years ago carried everything before him, riding into office on his military reputation, is to day about as weak as any man who could have been nominated. Grant had a fine opportunity to increase his popularity, but so corrupt has been, so weak his administration, so pliant a tool has been in the hands of politicians, that those who were the staunchest advocates of his policy have left him in disgust.

In the face of all the signs in the political sky, will Republicans still languish at the Reform movement? And do they think now that it is a movement inaugurated by disappointed office-seekers and sore heads?

What was a mere speck in the horizon then, now covers the whole heavens, the feeling which prompted the Cincinnati movement pervades the great body of the American people, and there and at Baltimore, the death warrant of the Republican party was signed. Every day, Grant is becoming weaker, his chances are becoming darker and darker, dissatisfaction, widespread, thorough is manifesting itself, and the future of the Reform movement is brightening. The good work goes bravely on.

GENERAL COX.

The people of Wake county remember with pleasure the able canvass of their candidate for the Senate. General Cox did most efficient service, and showed what a hold he had on his fellow-citizens in his county. He has fought a gallant fight and has the proud satisfaction of knowing that he has done his duty most nobly.

RETURNS FROM THE WEST.

Information received late yesterday evening from the counties of Jackson, Haywood, Macon, Clay, Cherokee, Transylvania, Alleghany, Henderson, Madison, and Mitchell indicate almost equal losses and gains in these counties they are the last counties to hear from, the majority of Caldwell will range between 500 and 1,000. Not much a victory for Grantism.

INTERVIEWED.

We notice among the arrivals in New York, Captain S. T. Williams, of the News, and C. M. Busbee, Esq. of this city, a member of the Democratic State Executive Committee. These gentlemen were interviewed by a Tribune reporter and gave it as their opinion that the recent contest in this State was not a fair indication of the strength of the Liberals, and that the State would go largely for Greeley in November.

Mysterious Affair—Found Dead.

We learn from a Pulaski friend that a youth by the name of Charles Fizer, aged about seventeen years, was found dead near Newbern on Tuesday last. The deceased was a son of Mr. Michael Fizer, well known throughout this country and in the Valley of Virginia as a stage driver up to the time when stage coaches were suspended by the use of rail-ways and steam engines for the conveyance of the mails and passengers. Young Fizer had been for some time employed in the capacity of mail messenger between Dublin and Newbern. On Monday night he was missed at home, but as he often lodged at the house of his brother no notice was taken of his absence. Failing to bring the mail in Tuesday morning, inquiry was made concerning him, and as it was ascertained that he had not spent the night either at the residence of his father or brother his friends became uneasy and at once proceeded to look for him. At about 10 o'clock in the morning his lifeless form was found a short distance from Newbern, his head being jammed up close in the corner of a rail fence on the road side. A coroner's inquest was held over the remains, but as no marks of violence could be discovered, except a slight scratch on the face, and no fact or circumstance elicited tending to enlighten the jury, their verdict was that he came to his death by some cause and from some means to them unknown. The youth is said to have been temperate in his habits and of good moral character, and so far as any one knew had no enemies. The cause of his death will perhaps continue to remain a mystery until the day of final reckoning, when every secret shall be revealed and every hidden thing be brought to light.—Wyltheville Enterprise.

The Utah Outrage.

A letter of the 4th from Salt Lake city to the New York Herald has the following: The disgraceful outrage of the Mormons last night in breaking up the Gentile mass meeting on Main street is the cause of much angry discussion. The latter went to the Liberal Institute and reorganized a meeting again. The Mormons attempted to interrupt speakers, were thrown out of the hall with force. The Mormon police were admitted only. They promised to enforce order. Pistols were drawn and serious collisions occurred, but finally the disturbers were ejected or awed into silence. General Maxwell, Rev. Mr. McLeod, R. N. Basken, P. H. Robinson and other democratic and republican made scathing speeches, denouncing the outrage as abridging the right of free speech. Stones were hurled into the room and glass smashed. The Gentiles organized and armed themselves as special police, and cleared the adjacent ground of the mob. It is ascertained that the whole affair was organized by the Brigham Young School of the Prophets, adjourned by his order to break up the meeting. All the special police were on hand, and to some purpose. The outrage is the topic of conversation to-day.

The Gentiles are deeply exasperated, and forcible resistance to the Mormon policy is anticipated. The election will be bitter and dangerous to-morrow. The Gentiles are determined to have their rights at every hazard. The Mormon paper tacitly justifies the proceedings last night.

A NEW STEAMSHIP ENTERPRISE.

The Glasgow Herald states that a company has been formed in Burrow, in Furness to establish a line of steam service between England and the Dominion of Canada and the United States. It was registered on the 3rd ult., with a capital of £1,000,000 sterling, in shares of £25 each. The managers of the company are Messrs. Thomas, John and Andrew Charles Henderson, of Glasgow, and Alexander Moffat, of the firm of Hay & Henderson, of Liverpool, London, New York, Chicago, &c. Three magnificent steamers of over 4,000 tons register, said to be the finest and swiftest that ever crossed the Atlantic, are almost ready for launching for the new company.

VALUABLE AND INGENUOUS INVENTIONS.

The honor of inventing and thoroughly utilizing a low-water indicator for use in the boilers of steam engines has been reserved for Norfolk and a Norfolk man, Mr. William Brooke. The indicator utterly precludes the possibility of water getting low, therefore preventing explosions and all such casualties. A patent has been secured, and the invention will shortly be put on the market. Mr. Brooke is a natural genius, and his invention, founded as it is on high scientific principles, reflects great credit upon him.—Norfolk Journal.

Stanley's African Expedition—Supplies Forwarded to Livingstone.

The Bombay papers contain letters from Zanzibar which mention several incidents connected with Mr. Stanley's discovery of Dr. Livingstone. The correspondent of the Times, of India, writing from Zanzibar on the 30th of May, says:

Messrs. Stanley, Henn, New and Morgaro sailed for Seychelles on the 29th, en route for Europe, in the screw steamer Star, Messrs. W. Oswald & Co. Mr. Stanley, with his usual activity, chartered the steamer. Two days before leaving, Mr. Stanley dispatched men and supplies to Dr. Livingstone, who awaits them at Unyanyembe. Mr. Stanley sent the supplies in charge of an Arab, along with fifty-seven men, well armed and in light marching order. These men will be at the disposal of the Doctor, being under engagement to that effect, since February constant rains have prevailed in Zanzibar.

Mr. H. A. Fraser, in a long letter to the Bombay Gazette, gives particulars of the meeting between Mr. Stanley and Mr. Livingstone, and the return of the Livingstone search expedition, and makes charges against Dr. Kirk, which will no doubt call forth explanations from that gentleman. The writer asserts that Dr. Livingstone has addressed an official dispatch to Dr. Kirk, charging him with remissness in failing to forward supplies, and with having employed men (who, although long employed by the Livingstone party, were not to take service under him, nor to remain with him. The Doctor also accuses the principal native firm at Zanzibar of peculation and false dealing. Mr. Stanley, the same correspondent states, left Zanzibar a hale, robust man 178 pounds weight; he returned in so poor and emaciated a condition that no one knew him, weighing 120 pounds.

The Journal says a branch of the Wilmington, Charlotte and Rutherford railroad, from some point in Bladen county to Fayetteville, is spoken of.

The house of J. L. Morehead, of Charlotte, was entered on Sunday night and a watch, chain and some other trinkets stolen.

Two individuals embarked in Wilmington for a row, when one gave the other a beating with an oar. Both parties were arrested.

The little son of the editor of the Greenville Spectator was recently run over by a hack, but happily escaped with only a few bruises.

We learn from the Roanoke News that the residence of Mr. Geo. W. Harrison, of Northampton county, was destroyed by fire on the 4th inst. Mrs. Buxton, the mother-in-law of Mr. Harrison, and young Eddie Harrison losing their lives in the flames. The origin of the fire is not known.

The Wilmington Journal says: We learn that, on Friday night last, a soldier belonging to the artillery company now stationed at Smithville, was killed by a man named Jake Dinsmore, a sutler, under the following circumstances: Dinsmore was standing at the door of Dinsmore's shop, after dark on Friday evening, conversing with Mr. Jack Davis, a citizen of Smithville, who had previously, it is said, had a difficulty with Dinsmore. While they were thus conversing, the sutler approached the door, from within, armed with a large bullet of wood, with which he struck Dinsmore, several times, on the head. The latter fell to the ground, fatally injured. He was taken to his quarters, where the surgeon was called in to him. But surgical skill was useless, and the poor fellow expired about midnight. Dinsmore was arrested and is now in jail at Smithville.

Never before perhaps has an election in a single State in the estimation of all proved the pivot on which turned the success of an entire presidential campaign, and that the result in North Carolina is so considered was shown yesterday by the eagerness with which the returns were conned by the professional and amateur politicians of both parties. While yet the dawn was young, and long before the servants were up, aristocratic regular subscribers stole softly to the door step in search of the paper pregnant with the word of Radicalism, while the news stands were bankrupt in stock at an early hour, and the doors of the Mercantile Library were besieged by a crowd of curious subscribers considerably before the usual time for opening. The excitement increased as the day went on. The readers of a certain Radical journal, which need not be named, who at the breakfast table, had mourned that the majority of 15,000 promised was reduced to 5,000, were considerably surprised on their way to business to learn that that majority was on the other side, and their countenances lengthened as their shadows shortened and the sun mounted higher, while they met on every hand with additional confirmations of the latter story. The bulletins of the various morning journals were, of course, surrounded at an early hour, and remained, metaphorically speaking, "observed of all observers," until fresher news was displayed on those of the evening papers, and not then were they entirely deserted, for many a verdant countryman, ignorant of their staidness, still lingered around them, anxious to learn how "old Car York" felt towards the farmer of Chappano.

To the newsboys the election returns was worth almost as much as a battle, and one Murad, the unlucky, aged five years, who was never known to sell all his stock before, was heard to exclaim, "I'll be jiggered, Dick, if I won't be the tightest snooter in all York to-night." The hotels and all places of public resort were thronged by excited discussers of the news, who seemed for the nonce to forget that, notwithstanding the election in North Carolina, they might be protested in New York at the same. Even Wall street did not give itself up entirely to the almighty dollar as usual, and more than one devotee of mammon found time to discuss the financial bearings of the question. The steps ascending and descending to banks and brokers' offices were often during the day lined with prophets who predicted a rise or fall in gold and consequent effect upon stocks. Within the premises where Tom Murphy was once non-arch of all he surveyed there was considerable chagrin that the hard earned dollars which had been extorted from the poor slaves in office by those in authority at Washington had borne such little fruit, while the anxious question propounded through the various leophotes at the post office by the dispensers of letters to those outside, showed that the handwriting on the wall was written very legibly in the old Dutch Reformed Church. While disarray and confusion everywhere was apparent in the ranks of the bread and butter brigade, the sunshine of hope brightened up the countenances of those Republicans and Democrats who are no longer for party but for country--Friend met friend with a firmer shake of the hand than usual, "Old Horace, all right, eh?" while one of the disheartened, turning in disgust away from a bulletin board, was heard to remark to his companion, "Grant had everything to lose and nothing to gain by this election, and he seems to have lost it."

But the enthusiasm of those on the winning side became unbounded when the familiar form of the future President of the United States was seen wending its way across from the Astor House to the Tribune office. Hardly had he emerged from the hotel before he was surrounded by multitudes of eager congratulators, who escorted him to his former sanctum with cheers and shouts. It was a perfect ovation, and those who knew that Mr. Greeley was made of clay like other men had great difficulty in preserving his venerable bones from utter annihilation by being borne on the Atlantean shoulders of the more determined of the crowd.

He pursued him almost to the sacred precincts which have never yet been defiled by tread of gamin, and it was with great difficulty that the philosopher escaped from their friendly but troublesome demonstrations. While he remained inside, the Tribune building was kept almost in a state of siege, but as it was some time before Mr. Greeley made his reappearance, the crowd had thinned sufficiently to allow him to escape on a Fourth Avenue car to the Lincoln Club. The evening was a repetition of the day, except that as the probabilities of a Conservative victory became certainties the office holders grew glummer and the Democrats more jubilant as the shades of night fell.

SCENE AT THE TIMES OFFICE.

The pertinacity of the Times in blindly adhering to the returns furnished by its correspondents in spite of their manifest inaccuracy was fully rewarded yesterday a temoon. A crowd of people was gathered round the bulletin board of the newspaper in question, and many took notes of the Liberal and Radical majorities and compared them with the figures on the World bulletin. Much comment was made on the transparent inaccuracies placed on the Times bulletin, and a tall, well-dressed but excited individual pushed through the crowd, scanned the Radical version of the result of the election, and fairly boiled over with indignation. Turning to the people around him he said, "Gentlemen, some of you may believe what is on that board, but I'll bet you all two dollars to one, ten dollars to five, fifty to twenty-five, or one thousand to five hundred, that all that is on that bulletin is a damned lie! and to show you that I am not gassing I will put up the money." With this the gentleman produced a curling roll of bills from his breast pocket and exhibited notes of large amount. No one would bet that if he went into the Times office he might induce some one to accept his bet. Our mercenary friend took the hint, stepped into the Times office, walked up to the counter, and blurted out, "Here is this the Times office." "Yes," replied the clerk, "Then I've come here to bet you that all you've got on that bulletin is a damned lie. I'll bet any one in this office $1,000 to $500 that it's a lie." There was a good deal of cheering outside and a great amount of cheering inside the office at the bold challenge, and after waiting several minutes and finding no one willing to take up the gauntlet the gentleman walked off, followed by an admiring crowd.--New York World.

WEDDING BELLS.

Sweet pulsing through the air of Spring, I hear the wedding chimes a-ting, I see them pass—the smiling bride,
The laughing lover at her side.

The world, now dressed in rosy hues, Stands still to hear the fond adieu;
And glad in youth's gay overflow, Alone on happy ways they go.

Two doves let loose from narrow cote!
Two butterflies that skim and float,
And tily slip life's royal wine And know not love like thine and mine!

Dear heart, our wedding bells are dumb,
The wedding morning does not come,
The patient years between us stand, We speak no word, we clasp no hand.

Each doing what he finds to do, With cheerful zest and purpose true; Sweeter our love's deep hidden pain Than all the joys that others gain.
